Deadline: March 15th 2016

Are you are looking for a challenging and exciting job in a dynamic international environment? Are you a university graduate with a passion for business, IT affinity and leadership? Then you are the perfect candidate to start your career with our international AMOS Trainee Program!

During the 18-month trainee program, which is split into 3 six-month assignments, you will participate in various AMOS projects focusing on IT. You will take on tasks in project teams as well as bear responsibility for your own projects. When developing these tasks, the AMOS team takes into consideration your core expertise, individual strengths and interests, and will design your individual entry program to develop your career at AMOS. In the course of these 18 months, you will continuously develop yourself on and off the job and gain relevant experience in project management. To facilitate your familiarization of AMOS as a global company, you will have the option of experiencing an international assignment and get to know a country-specific project directly on site in more detail. During the entire program, a top management representative will be your mentor and support you in your professional and personal development. Take your future into your own hands and take this opportunity to become a front runner for this position! The assignment will begin in Munich, Germany but can include an international assignment.
